IMMEDIATELY
May 21, 1987

State Senate and Assembly candidates in the 1987 June primary have raised $1,460,132 and spent $574,772 on their campaigns through May 8, 1987, according to figures released by the New Jersey Election Law Enforcement Commission.

In a statement made today, Frederick M. Herrmann, Executive Director of the Commission, said that the 29-day preelection reports indicate that candidates for the State Senate raised 52 percent of the total funds collected by all legislative candidates, or $755,346. He also said that 51 percent of the expenditures made by such candidates, or $297,382, were attributed to Senate candidates.

Herrmann said that Assembly candidates raised $704,786 and spent $277,390. The first figure represents a 29 percent increase in contributions over 1985. There was a 22 percent increase in expenditures from that year. Assembly candidates received $545,572 and spent $227,038 by this time two years ago.

Comparisons to 1985 for Senate candidates cannot be made because there was no State Senate election in that year.

"Overall, Democratic candidates have raised slightly more money than Republicans, $732,918 to $727,214," said Herrmann. On the other hand, Republicans have outspent Democrats by $88,692. The Republicans spent $331,732 and the Democrats $243,040."

According to Herrmann, the Senate candidates in the Democratic primary raised $394,285 in contributions and spent $109,986. Their counterparts in the Republican primary received $361,060 and expended $187,395.

Democratic Assembly candidates raised $338,632 and spent $133,053. Assembly Republicans raised $366,153 and expended $144,337.

"Spending by Republican Assembly candidates," said Herrmann, "increased by 100 percent over 1985 levels ($71,843). Assembly Democrats, however, are spending at only 86 percent of the 1985 level ($155,195)."

A profile of campaign receipts and expenditures shows that $982,199, or 67 percent, has been raised by incumbents and $477,932, or 33 percent, by challengers. Incumbents have outspent challengers $319,917 to $254,855. There are a total of 105 incumbent candidates running in the primary, 40 of those incumbents are Senate candidates while 65 incumbents are running for the Assembly.

Incumbent Senate candidates received $509,603 or 67 percent of the $755,346 in contributions made to all Senate candidates, compared to $245,742 that went to challengers. These same incumbents have spent $154,195 to the $143,186 spent by Senate challengers.

Herrmann added that in the Assembly, contributions to incumbents have increased by 28 percent over 1985 while spending by incumbents has increased 11 percent. Likewise, contributions to challengers has increased by 31 percent over 1985 while their spending has risen by 44 percent.

He said that Assembly incumbents raised $472,595 in 1987 compared to $368,174 in 1985. They have spent $165,721 this year compared to $149,524 in 1985. Challengers for the Assembly received $232,190 compared to $177,398 two years ago and spent $111,669 compared to $77,513 in 1985.

Attached are the top 20 Senate candidates in terms of receipts and expenditures reported as of May 8, 1987 as well as the top 20 Assembly candidates. There are also similar lists for the top twenty Assembly candidates from the 1985 race.

The next set of reports, the 11-day preelection report, is due at the Commission on May 22, 1987.

The figures contained in this press release have been taken from candidate or committee reports on file with the Commission as of May 8th. Figures from reports or corrections to reports filed after that date are not included.
