FOR RELEASE:
July 23, 2010

County party committees collectively spent more than $2.3 million during the first six months of 2010 and have $2.6 million in the bank, according to reports filed this week with the New Jersey Election Law Enforcement Commission.

Democratic party committees generally were outraising their Republican counterparts during a year in which Congressional elections are the main statewide focus. Spending totals in some cases top fundraising totals because committees have dipped into funds carried over from the previous year or as a result of short-term loans.

	RECEIPTS THROUGH JUNE 30, 2010	SPENDING THROUGH JUNE 30, 2010	NET WORTH ON JUNE 30, 2010

Just one Republican Committee - Burlington - has more than $100,000 stashed away at this point in the year. It had the highest net worth of any county party committee. Among those who have filed reports, no Republican committees reported a net worth below zero.
